" KEEP SMILING!"

The "Keep smiller" philosophy is one of considerable value up life. In many cases the ability to "keep smiling" is a matter of temperament. A postical expression puts the case a "Two mea look-libr through iros bars; one sees the mud, the other, the stars. But, at the same time, it is not casy fort agrone—even if they are naturally of happy disposition—to look on the cheepy side of things when any of the disagreesist symptoms of dyspepsia make their applarance. Indigesion will affect the outside of the brightest individual. To "keep smiling" daving a severe bilious attack will be a matter of real difficulty to the majority of people. Thanks to

N proportion as the discipline of the old régime was enforced and mechanical, there was bound to be a reaction when the Army was swept by the revolutionary impulse. It is probable that the restoration of the old type of discipline is now altegether impossible. What M. Kerensky and his colleagues have to do is to direct and foster the growth of a new type of discipline, spontaneous and organic. This new discipline, however, cannot be other than a plant of slow growth. We may hope that in time the Revolutionary Army will be an even more efficient instrument of war than the Army of the Tsardom; but we must not hope that its recovery can be rapid. If the Directory can hold off the small term of the Tsardom; but we must not hope that its recovery can be rapid. If the Directory can hold off the small term of the Russia for several months to come.

ded to commit for trial the public. Few o of Larissa, Cephalonia, and Phocis. We are reminded of the trial of the seven bishops in the reign of James II., but there is a striking contrast between the circumstances of the two cases. Archbishop Sancroft, of Canterbury, was a man who told the truth to kings. When Charles II. lay Greek bishops seem to be ecclesiastics of a very different type. The general charge against them is that they tried to bolster up the tottering throne of King Constantine with all the terrors and sanctities of the Church. These four bishops are supposed to have been the ringleaders who led most of the other bishops astray; and we gather that, under the new order of things at Athens, the Holy Synod has been entirely reconstituted. The charge on which they will be tried contains many counts. The most prominent of these relates to the uncanonical and unlawful decree of anathema against M. Venezelos—for which, fortunately, that brave and patient patrict does not appear to be a penny the worse. does not appear to be a penny the worse Curses, like chickens, come home to roost and the position of the four bishops is not highly unenviable. Their defence is, in fact highly unenviable. Their defence is, in fact, nothing better than a plea of confession and avoidance. They declare that they acted with the assent of the former Government, and submit that moral and material pressure was exercised by the reservists. The former statement certainly is true; but the falsity of the latter one is said to be made obvious by notorious facts. For instance, after the ceremony of anathema the bishops, of their own accord, notified the Œcumenical Patriarch officially of its proclamation. They asked him to support their action, and to proceed to the excommunication of the traitors named in the anathema. If they propose to disprove these charges, it will be necessary for them with deep envy. Seriously, however, these bishops, if even a part of the indictment against them be true, have afforded a very melancholy example of the results of the confusion of politics with religion. Whether in Greece or in Ireland, those results are always painful and injurious—and chiefly injurious to the Church that has tolerated the confusion.

SAFETY DISSOLVED.

M. Kerensky has issued a proclamation thanking the Committee of Public Safety, formed during the Korniloff revolt, for their services, and dissolving them. The post of Military Governor of Petrograd has been abolished.

The executive leaders of the Don Coesacks urge the Government to countermand the order for General Kaledin's arrest, on the ground that it was procured by the ground that it was procured by agents provocateurs, and that the Cossacks have never ceased to be loyal INJURY NOT IRREPARABLE.

He was glad to say that, in spite of the bad weather, there was an increase this year in corn crops; in fact, there was an increase all round, and things agricultural had turned out much better than was expected. He had had a brief report from every county in Ireland, and there was only one county—Kerry—where things had gone badly. The crops in certain parts of the country had suffered everely, but the injury done was not irreparable. The opinion of the experts of the Department all over the country was that there would be an abundant harvest. (Hear, hear.) There never had been in the history of the country such a crop of potatoes as there was this year. The production was enormous. Oats was the next in importance, and that, too, was a good crop; and with these two main crops going right things would be well enough.

GENERAL ELECTION BEFORE THE SUMMER.

PREMIER'S ALLEGED INTENTION. Speaking at a meeting in London yesterds fternoon, under the auspices of the Womer Freedom League, Miss Nina Boyle said she had it on fairly sound authority, sound as any political authority could be, that it was the intention of the House of Commons to press the Women's Enfranchisement Bill through at the earliest possible date, so as to go to the country with the new register before the summer. That was the particular wish of Mr. Lloyd George. It was the object of the Partiamentary following of Mr. Lloyd George and of Mr. Lloyd George himself that he should go to the country as soon as he could. That, she said, was very hopeful. Because their personal interests were wrapped up with the personal interests of those great people, they had a better

BURGLARIES IN SOUTH COUNTY DUBLIN.

CANON HANNAY'S HOUSE ROSED.

Rev. Canon Hannay's house, on the Vice road, Dalkey, was entered by a burgiar on Treeday night, and some money and small valuables stoles. The robbery is believed to be one of many burgiaries which have occurred in South County Dublin during the past month. As many as seven and eight houses have been entered in one night. In some cases nearly all the houses in a terrace were found to have been entered, and in each instance the burgiar, or burgiars—it is believed to be the work of a single individual—took only money, and left behind portable valuables within reach. The authorities believe they have a clue, but, despite every vigilance, the robberies have continued without the police being able so far to lay the crimes clearly at the door of any persons who have come under suspicion, or who have been detained for fuller liquiry.

These four bishops are supposed to have been the ringleaders who led most of the other bishops astray; and we gather that, under the new order of things at Athens, the Holy Synod has been entirely reconstituted. The charge on which they will be tried contains many counts. The most prominent of these relates to the uncanonical and unlawful decree of anathema against M.
